FIVE CENTS

RUSSIANS CONQUER TWO THIRDS OF BERLIN MOLOTOV BLOCKS ELECTION OF STETTINIUS

Russian Causes
Tight Deadlock
At Conference

Refusal To Back American for Chairmanship May Start New Row

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
SAN FRANCISCO, April 26 (AP)— Russian Commissar Molotov catapulted the World Security Conference into a tight deadlock today by blocking the election of Secretary of State Stettinius to its chairmanship.

The stolid Russian also rejected a British compromise.

What was to have been a routine, initial business meeting of chiefs of delegations broke off abruptly, its tasks far from complete, its participants stunned and amazed at prospects of another Big Three row.

After setting off his explosion, Molotov proceeded calmly into a new conference to give public assurances of an eventual solution to a controversy already flaming among Russia, Britain and the United States — over a knotty Polish problem.

Heads of state had proposed at this morning's Steering committee meeting, and that was what Molotov blocked, along with a British compromise of four rotating chairmen.

No Ready Reason

Delegates had no ready reason for Molotov's action. They thought perhaps Russia regarded the chairmanship question of such importance that the foreign commissar was sparing for time in which to consult Moscow.

In the light of what happened at the Steering committee meeting, many in the assemblage at the late afternoon plenary session waited impatiently for translations of Molotov's address. He didn't mention the morning activities.

Bespectacled, balding, dressed in blue, Molotov asserted:

"I should like to assure the conference our country is devoted to the cause of setting up an organization to protect the peace. I wish you to know that the Soviet Union can be relied upon to protect the peace. Our peaceful people, the Red army and our great Marshal Stalin are inflexibly supporting this great cause."

Stettinius Also Speaks

From the same blue-clad rostrum of San Francisco's opera house, Stettinius, I. V. Soong of China and Eden also spoke. If they were disturbed by the morning's events, they didn't betray it at this dramatic moment.

One essential condition of success at the conference, Stettinius declared, "is the voluntary co-operation of all peaceful nations, large and small, acting with full respect for the equal sovereignty of each, to promote justice among nations, to foster respect for basic human rights and to solve those common problems upon which the security and the economic and social advancement of their peoples so largely depend."

The slender, handsome Eden spoke of past efforts to attain collective security, efforts which failed, and declared that "a further attempt must be made and this time we must succeed."

Sternly, he warned:

"Either we must find some means of ordering our relations with justice and fair dealing, while allowing nations great and small full opportunity to develop their free and independent life, or we shall soon head for another world conflict which this time must bring the utter destruction of civilization."

Important Message
Believed Received
From Premier Stalin

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—The Russian Charge d'Affaires called at the State department today, and immediately afterward Under-secretary of State Joseph C. Grew hastened to confer with President Truman. This raised speculation that an important communication had been received from Russia.

"It is a pity; I can say nothing," Soviet Charge Nikolai Novikov told newsmen as he emerged from Grew's office.

The undersecretary, state department chief in the absence of Secretary Stettinius, after decline to discuss the affair, also called on President Truman.

April 25—(Delayed) (AP)—One of Germany's best known generals surrendered to American infantrymen on the Elbe today and said he expected the war to end in a few days.

Yank Infantry
Wins High Ground
In So. Okinawa

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, Friday, April 27 (AP)—

Infantrymen of Maj. Gen. James R. Bradley's Ninety-sixth division drove a wedge into the deep Japanese secondary defenses on Southern Okinawa yesterday by capturing high ground in the center of the line.

"The war's turning point came last June in Normandy when the Germans failed to beat back the channel invasion.

Politically, economically and physically the Reich has been doomed since July 20, 1944, the day the bomb plot to assassinate Hitler failed. Had the Wehrmacht seized control, he said, surrender would have been engineered somehow in time to avert complete destruction.

"The German national redoubt, where an extended holdout has been predicted, is mostly a myth and is already incapable of a long defense."

After crossing the Elbe in row-boat under a white flag the general asserted German casualties had been too great to make continued resistance possible.

He said the only thing holding remnants of the German army together was the presence of the gestapo, storm troopers and SS troops who, he predicted, would scatter quickly upon the fall of Berlin or the death of Hitler.

Fleet warships, meantime, continued their close fire support, knocking out numerous enemy artillery batteries, gun emplacements and defense installations.

Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the Twenty-fifth army corps—which includes the Seventh, Twenty-seventh and Ninety-sixth divisions—reported all key features of the outer Japanese defense line now secured by the Yanks in the eighth day of their grand offensive toward Naha, the capital city, about three and one half miles to the south.

Hodge said the Americans control

"Skyline Ridge" across the Ryukyu island, 325 miles south of Japan itself.

A Tenth army spokesman said the Seventh, Twenty-seventh and Ninety-sixth divisions had driven the Japanese from all key positions in their first heavily fortified defense zone.

"We are now only a few hundred yards from the next Jap stone wall," the staff spokesman told Associated Press Correspondent James Lindsley.

Lindsley's field dispatch also reported that Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge, commander of the engaged Twenty-fourth corps, said that when the second defense ring is broken his troops should smash the inner circle about Okinawa's capital of Naha without too much trouble.

Key positions seized by the Americans included Kakuze, captured once before and lost, and strategic Hill 178 on the east coast.

Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz announced in his Thursday communique that 21,269 Japanese had been killed and 399 captured on Okinawa and adjacent islands since D Day — April 1.

Comparative American ground losses, up to April 23, were 1,146 soldiers and marines killed, 5,982 wounded and 296 missing.

Seven-year-old Bobby Yates, young runaway who was returned to his home today for the twenty-eighth said "I run away because I live in an old house. I want to live in a new house."

Bobby had been wandering around Baltimore since Monday and was found by police inside a theater where he had been locked in when he fell asleep.

Police said Bobby was bedraggled, hungry and anxious to get back to his "old house."

More Meat Soon To Be Rationed, OPA Announces

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP) — Still more meat was put under rationing control today, effective Sunday, with the average point price higher, but some canned fruits and vegetables were reduced in point values.

Chester Bowles, price administrator, said the point raises for meat, putting about ninety-nine and a half per cent of the civilian supply under ration control, reflected a supply for April some two and a half per cent less than that of March.

Cuts Highly Selective

Processed food ration value cuts were highly selective: in canned snap beans, tomato catsup and chili sauce, apricots, and tomato juice and vegetable juice combination. The point price of grape juice went up.

Emphasizing the tight food supply which the monthly ration value changes reflect, President Truman meanwhile called on the nation for a big increase in the planting of victory gardens.

Pointing out that "every new victory of our armed forces brings increased demands for food for liberated people," the president said in a letter to former Gov. Prentiss Cooper of Tennessee, chairman of the National Garden Advisory committee:

Greater Need Now

"There is greater need now than at any time since the war began for more gardens and better gardens, whether they are at home, in community plots or in company-employee gardens."

Under the new meat chart, civilians must give up red points for all cuts and grades with the sole exception of mutton.

Less Beef Available

Bowles said civilians can look for a little more veal, mutton and pork but that 9,000,000 pounds less beef will be available in May than in April.

Added to the ration list are cuts and utility grades of veal and lamb, all grades and the less popular cuts of mutton and lamb such as breasts, shanks, necks and flanks. Bowles said the primary purpose of assigning points to the less popular cuts of veal and lamb was to keep point value increases on the more popular cuts at a minimum and to give everyone a better chance to share in available supplies.

Red Point Increases

Red point increases run one to two points a pound for most cuts of all grades of lamb and veal, and a point a pound on most beef cuts. Decreases of one to two points apply on beef roasts and other beef cuts. Margarine goes up four points a pound and group one cheeses which include cheddar, swiss, brick, and blue, are boosted two points.

Two No. two cans of snap beans will require only ten points instead of ten points a can beginning Sunday. A single can, however, will continue to cost ten points since ration stamps have a uniform ten point value and cannot be broken down into smaller units.

The reduction in the blue point value of tomato juice and vegetable juice combinations applies only to the twenty-four-ounce can. The value of this can is reduced from twenty to ten points.

Tomato catsup and chili sauce drop from thirty to twenty points for fourteen ounces. No. two and a half cans of apricots come down ten points to thirty. Pint containers of grape juice go up ten points, to thirty, while quarts increased twenty points to fifty.

Warren Guy Miller Is Reported Killed

Radioman Warren Guy Miller, 21, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Miller, St. George, W. Va., was killed in action March 26 while serving with the navy in the South Pacific, according to yesterday's war casualty list. He was previously reported missing in action.

A graduate of Parsons, W. Va., high school, Radioman Miller was employed in Baltimore before entering the navy February 3, 1943. He was assigned to sea duty two years ago.

Besides his parents, he is survived by four brothers and three sisters. They are Paul Miller, technician fifth grade, now home on furlough after being wounded while serving with the army in the Pacific theater; Ralph A. Miller, seaman first class, on duty with the Atlantic fleet; Donald, George and Mary Alice Miller, at home; Mrs. Virginia Parsons, St. George; and Miss Kathryn Miller, a student at the high school in Morgantown, W. Va.

Ifc. Wayne Hebb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hebb, also of St. George, was wounded in action in Germany April 9. Ifc. Hebb entered the army last September and went overseas in March.

Lease Completes Course At Ordnance School

Milton R. Lease, 20, firemen first class, USNR, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur G. Lease, 620 Elm street, Cumberland, has been graduated from the ordnance school of the Armed Guard Center (Pacific) on the naval base at Treasure Island, San Francisco. He will be assigned duty aboard a ship.

Lease, former student of Cresaptown junior high school, has been in the navy since the day he turned 17, January 9, 1942, a month after Pearl Harbor. He took recruit training at Norfolk, attended electrician school at St. Louis, served aboard a troop transport in the Atlantic, and saw action in the Mediterranean.

He stood watch in the engine room of his ship during a Nazi bombing at Salerno.

RUPTURE SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. SHEVANAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at the Ft. Cumberland Hotel, Cumberland, Sunday and Monday, only, April 29 and 30, from 9 A.M. to 4 P.M.

Mr. Shevanan says: The Zoetic shield is tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly no matter the size or location, but it increases the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, and thereby close the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of any position the body may assume. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevanan will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

Heck. After attending Allegany county high school she entered the Western Maryland Hospital School of Nursing soon after graduation enlisted in the navy nurse corps. She was stationed in the naval hospital at Pelham, N. Y., when the Armistice was signed for the World War I.

Since then she has served in Hawaii, Guam, the Philippines, Nicaragua, Panama, China and Japan as well as naval hospitals on both the East and West coast. She served as head nurse at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station for fifteen months before being sent to England in charge of 100 nurses. When on February 8, 1944 she arrived in England she was the first navy woman in history to set foot there, and was welcomed accordingly. She served there a little less than a year and since last November has been on duty in the Navy Bureau of Medicine and Surgery in Washington.

The citation commands Lt. Comdr. Heck, "as chief nurse at a naval base hospital in England prior to, during and after the invasion of France, she was untiring in her efforts to prepare for the care of a large number of casualties. She effected the efficient assignment and employment of the staff of nurses, inspiring them to render the highest type of medical attention to the large numbers of patients hospitalized. Spontaneous expression of appreciation from all patients and from medical officers of all services attest to her meritorious performance of duty."

"We were up practically the whole night," the letter said. "We had quite a scare when a Jap bomber flew over our ship at an altitude of about five feet and dropped a bomb. Fortunately his aim was poor and it fell harmlessly into the sea off our stern."

A section of the second letter, dated March 27, described the tremendous naval bombardment of the island prior to the invasion in an attempt to destroy all shore defenses and fortifications before the main landings were made on "L" day.

The following day, Lt. Comdr. Geppert wrote, a pilot who had spent three days on Okinawa before the invasion was rescued by seaplane.

Describes Pilot's Rescue

"On the twenty-fifth his plane collided with another plane over one of the Jap airfields and he was forced to crash-land on the airstrip," he said. "In some miraculous manner he eluded the Japs and spent three days in the hills hiding. He finally stole a small Jap boat and paddled out beyond the reef where he was rescued by one of our seaplanes. He was a lucky boy and brought back a lot of valuable information with him."

Lt. Comdr. Geppert was unable to mention the tactics the Japs used here but it seems to be well known throughout the United States. I am getting used to the raids now and don't mind them so much. Yesterday our ship shot down a Jap plane that was trying to give us the works."

In the same letter, Lt. Comdr. Geppert wrote that the previous day word had reached the ship of the sinking of the 45,000-ton battleship Yamato, part of a strong task force of the Japanese fleet sent down to protect Okinawa from the American invaders.

Lt. Comdr. Geppert has had combat experience at Saipan and Tinian. He was temporarily attached to the staff of Adm. W. H. P. Blandy for the Iwo Jima and Okinawa operations.

"Of course all our resistance comes from the big air raids the Japs send over every evening and every morning," he said. "Enemy losses and personnel have been terrific, while a number of our ships have been hit. I am not permitted to mention the tactics the Japs use but it seems to be well known throughout the United States. I am getting used to the raids now and don't mind them so much. Fishing Licenses For Servicemen To Be Issued Free

A supply of fishing licenses to be issued free to members of the armed forces have been received at the office of the clerk of circuit court, Robert Jackson, clerk, announced yesterday.

The licenses, colored patriotically in red, white and blue, are imprinted with the words " gratis for members of the armed forces."

The licenses were made available to servicemen without charge under the provisions of a bill enacted by the recently closed session of the legislature and signed by the governor.

Under the bill, the licenses are to be issued only to persons appearing in the uniform of their respective service and presenting credentials showing their status. The servicemen also must keep these credentials in their possession while fishing, for inspection of any game warden.

As yet none of the gratis licenses has been issued.

According to E. Lee LeCompte, state game warden, the bill also applies to hunting licenses, but censes will not be made available until there is no open season before August.

"Humanity . . . Is Hanging Breathless on Thy Fate"

THE HOPES AND PRAYERS of the whole civilized world are centered upon the world security conference now under way at San Francisco. We of Cumberland and its vicinity can and do join with the countless millions of war-weary people in echoing the words so eloquently uttered by Longfellow that this ship now being built be "straight and strong—a goodly vessel that shall laugh at all disaster, and with wave and whirlwind wres-tle." This because—

"Humanity with all its fears,
With all its hopes of future years,
Is hanging breathless on thy fate."

Yes, the fate of world civilization hangs in the balance—the welfare of the whole human race is at stake as never before in world history. Repeatedly this newspaper has expressed its fears that the tremendous advance of science, stimulated by war necessities, has brought implements of destruction to such colossal magnitude that another world-wide clash of arms would be calamitous. "With the discovery of new methods of killing," ex-president Hoover has pointed out, "with the shift from wars between men to war against women and children with the gigantic destruction of centuries of men's toil, a third world war will mean the destruction of civilization." The bestial course of the enemy has indicated that all too clearly and horribly.

Therefore, the success of the San Francisco conference is definitely a "must"; and it is encouraging to read in the reports from it that its dominant mood is that "the conference must not fail"—that the delegates are not wildly enthusiastic but are rather "grimly determined" that it must not be permitted to fail simply because the stakes are too high.

There are other auspicious circumstances, outstanding among which has been the spirit of cooperation which preceded the conference and resulted in the sincere endeavor to avoid the mistakes and recalcitrances which unfortunately characterized the efforts to make an effective instrument of the old League of Nations. There is now accepted recognition of the tripartite functioning of the national government whereby the legislative branch is to have representation in the formulation of a peace structure.

Another auspicious influence is the place of the meeting. It is, as the New York Herald Tribune has noted, most fortunate that the conference is being held at San Francisco. "Perhaps the rest of the world will not feel the force of its westernism equally with Americans," it says, "but they can hardly visit our great Pacific city, with its Golden Gate opening upon a global world, without taking some inspiration from its spirit. We have no city that lives in closer touch with Old World civilization, yet its courage, its buoyancy, its readiness for whatever comes, date from the best of the frontier tradition."

"Efforts to secure peace are as old as the hills and have always failed, the cynics say. Let it be agreed that the conference is attempting to organize a long and difficult labor. But surely no visitor who has crossed our continent—whether in days by a streamlined train or in hours by multi-motored plane—could miss the task which the pioneers faced and conquered. The very speed of the trip today could only accentuate the appalling arduousness, the unpredictable perils, of the work achieved by the men and women of the covered wagon. The inventive turn of mind, quick to find expedients; the strength, the dauntlessness of those first settlers made San Francisco the beautiful and stirring city that it is today. What cynic could stand up against such resourcefulness?"

"Our western civilization, starting in the ancient rivers of the Near East, spread around the Mediterranean, encircled the Atlantic and finally crossed America to this spot. There it opens upon another great ocean and looks to the Orient. It has frequently been remarked that the American frontier has now vanished, and that, with the disappearance, the vigor of the pioneer spirit has faded. But those masterful traits plainly endure in our Far West. Where better could the nations undertake their new task of pioneering?"

"For our own people, the appeal to our older selves is a double one. Here is a chance to resume the westward march. With our great allies—with China, with Russia, with the British commonwealths of the Pacific, with our old friends, the Dutch and French, and our fellow citizens in the Philippines—we have the opportunity to develop a new civilization in the Pacific area. There is, in itself, a new and vast frontier, offering on the sea and in the air every adventure."

The hopes now centered upon this historic conference must not be pitched too high. The task confronting it will not be easy. There will be many complexities to overcome and to co-ordinate and to compound—differences naturally rooted in varied ethnological, economic, ideological, geographical and climatic factors, and, above all, the natural considerations of sovereign integrity and self protection. Hence, there must be compromises, a spirit of earnest good will which will bring them into amicable adjustment. This good will, as has been pointed out by President Truman, John Foster Dulles, Secretary Stettinius and others, must underlie the whole endeavor, and a solid foundation must be constructed to support an enduring structure. This foundation must palpably be the rule of law as against the rule of might, and this rule by law must be founded upon the theory of equal justice that has been the keynote of the success of this great republic.

The Polish question is the most difficult obstacle confronting the conference by reason of the principles involved. There are differences, too, as to voting procedures. But these are not impossible of solution and the grim determination of the delegates gives assurance that these ticklish questions can and will somehow be satisfactorily resolved. As President Truman has so clearly put it, "differences between men and between nations will always remain. In fact, if held within reasonable limits, such disagreements are actually wholesome. All progress begins with differences of opinion and moves onward as the differences are adjusted through reason and mutual understanding" as, indeed, American constitutional history has proved.

Other favorable circumstances include the wholehearted abandonment of partisanship on the part of the United States delegation and its political parties, and the methodical and co-ordinated system adopted for full consideration, with reviews, of the various complex questions in hand. Thus will undue haste be avoided and, recalling the long time that elapsed and the painstaking efforts exerted in developing the American constitution from the futile Articles of Confederation, this is particularly encouraging.

And so let us all be co-operative and not too cautious or quarrelsome about this great undertaking, but give it our prayerful support. This does not mean a careless or senseless abnegation of our national ideals and the responsibilities they connote. But let us all pray and work for the building of a strong ship of international law for a just and lasting peace, a ship that may sail on "in spite of rock and tempest's roar, in spite of false light on the shore, without 'fear to breast the sea' because—

"Our hearts, our hopes, are all with thee,
Our hearts, our hopes, our prayers,
Our faith triumphant o'er our fears,
Are all with thee,—are all with thee!"

Returning Veterans Deserve Consideration

TYPICAL OF MUCH COMMENT on what is being done and what can be done to help the returning veterans make the most of his chance of getting a start in civilian life is the observation in an editorial in Public Welfare, magazine of the American Public Welfare Association, that "the veterans themselves must be consulted about what is done for them in the postwar period."

Nearly all the help that is being offered to the veteran, both by the armed services as he is prepared for discharge, and by other groups after he is discharged, is offered in a sincere effort to do something for men who have done so much for their country. But the motive is far less important than the effect. And the effect of much of the attention given to veterans is to confuse and handicap them.

It is true that a man who has been through the hardships of combat warfare and who has been under fire and perhaps wounded, has gone through experiences which can never share with anyone who has not had the same experience. It is also true that in some cases the combat veteran has been put to such severe strains on his strength that he will require some adjustment to make him feel at home again in civilian life.

In general, the veteran will make out all right. Many veterans who have been back in civilian life for several months are doing well. They should be consulted about what can be done for those who are up for discharge. Veterans of the First World War are especially equipped to prove from their own experience that in nearly all cases the returning veteran finds work that he likes and that he has little trouble settling down to the normal experiences of marriage and home life. The veteran deserves every lift that can be given to him, including freedom from too much of the wrong kind of advice.

The way those Nazis are clinging to their bomb-blasted Berlin proves that even a rubbish heap can have sentimental attachment for some folks.

WHERE'S YOUR HOME?

By MARSHALL MASLIN

A year or two before the war a friend of mine went back to Ireland in the spring—and he said he would not surrender that experience for any material thing. It was a lovely time and he found green Ireland all he had dreamed it would be. Not that he had ever been there before, but his father had come from Ireland and he had always in his heart thought of it as home. As I sometimes do because my own great grandfather came from there more than ninety years ago and rounded the Horn and came up the Pacific Coast to California, a teacher in search of gold—which he did not find.

The eyes of this man still glow with remembered beauty whenever he speaks of Ireland—the green rolling hills and the charming lakes and the flowering gorse hedges between the fields and the white-washed cottages and the pleasant voices of the people—and I know he is glad he went there at last and made a dream come true.

But he came home again to America, not tempted to live forever in Ireland. He knows his home was not there but here where his friends are, where he was born, where he grew to be a man. His fancy was in Ireland but his heart is rooted deeply in his native soil.

The greatest happiness is for a man to know where his home lies. He may wander far and see many lands and meet many people his heart untraveled does not forget the beloved, unchanged outlines of the place where it is at rest. . . . Home may not be even a place but a state of mind. It may be a way of living. It may be a good friend, a dear wife, a husband. It is a comforting, strengthening environment which surrounds a man and holds him steady in the shifting circumstance of his days.

You can tell when you look into a man's eyes and hear him talk and see him move whether he has made for himself a homestead that will be his forever. You can tell, when he is with him whether he is restless and secretly afraid and has found no place in this world where he can be blessedly at home.

British and American Banks Collaborated With Nazis since War, Drew Pearson Says

By DREW PEARSON

SAN FRANCISCO — When the American Army swept into Germany it was fortunate enough to capture an interesting figure in Dr. H. J. Caesar, the counterpart of an alien property custodian who had charge of all American banks and alien property seized in France.

Dr. Caesar was cross-examined at length. From him came highly enlightening and heretofore secret information about the manner in which certain British and American branch-banks in Paris collaborated with the Germans after the fall of France. His testimony highlights the main issue underlying the problem of future peace—namely whether, despite all the plans worked out at San Francisco, certain Allied business firms together with their friends in the State Department, the army and the British Foreign Office are going to maneuver behind the scenes to strengthen Germany once again as a bulwark against Russia.

This largely lies at the root of the ticklish Polish question. Russia wants Poland which will cooperate with her and be a buffer against German invasion. If there were no fear of future Germany there might be less insistence on a puppet Poland.

Byrnes Quotes Stalin

Ex-Judge Jimmy Byrnes described this graphically to senators upon his return from Yalta. Telling how Stalin got excited on the question of Poland, Byrnes quoted Stalin as saying: "You speak of English honor, Mr. Prime Minister and your desire to protect the safety of Russia. But twice in twenty-five years German armies have marched across Poland to attack Russia. If that happens again will the English armies come to our defense?"

Before Poland was invaded last time it will be remembered that British business interests were quite willing, even apparently anxious, to have the Sudetenland taken away from Czechoslovakia. President Benes complained bitterly regarding Lord Runciman's attitude on this but the British appeasers policy was to strengthen Russia at the expense of Russia's friend and buffer ally, Czechoslovakia.

Significant Evidence

Finally, it was American and British banks which poured money into Germany for years before the war and then maneuvered to have reparations and war debts canceled in order to protect their own loans. The Chase National Bank was one of the worst offenders. That is why a lot of people in Washington, Moscow and the world at large are watching to see whether history will repeat. That is why the evidence unearthed from the secret files of German Alien Property Custodian Caesar is so significant. It indicates that even during the present war, the Paris branches of Chase and J. P. Morgan were quite willing and anxious to do business with the Germans though British banks were more so.

Dr. Caesar testified that "the protection afforded to Chase was justified on the ground that it had been active on behalf of Germany before the war in such matters as the German 'stand-still' credit arrangement of the present German-British conflict, take such an uprising that his firm will be in a position to take an active part in the developments through the granting of reparation credits." With respect to England, Mr. P. D. hopes that the Conservative party under Sir Samuel Hoare and Lord Londonderry will get the upper hand over the Churchill clique one of these days, and that the worse may still be avoided for England. The principal culprit in this war is Roosevelt, who, by vague promises instigated by the criminal clique surrounding him, has driven England as well as France into this war, against their will.

These remarks were made to me by Mr. P. D., privately, since he and the branches of Chase and Morgan are very friendly toward a firm for which he worked, namely Kidder Peabody and Co., and they also know one of my distant relatives in Boston. Mr. P. D.'s remarks may well be taken to reflect the opinion of this international Aryan banking firm.

This is one sample of the big business maneuvering which went on behind the scenes during and before this war, and which can lay seeds for World War III. Unless stamped out it may undo all the peace machinery to be erected at San Francisco.

Babson Discusses Prospects of 20 Big Industries

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON PARK, Mass., April 26—On a recent vacation in Florida, I had time to study America's greatest industries with special thought as to their safety for postwar investment.

The Big Five

(1) The industry best able to meet inflation, should be retail trade. Those concerns having a book value approximately equal to the selling price of their stocks are to be preferred. The variety chains should be safest of all.

(2) The oil group should come next in order. With these should be included certain metal shares although I do not like the coppers. Probably the greatest gamble, for good or ill, are the gold stocks.

(3) The chemical industry should emerge from the war as a leading post-war industry when the pharmaceutical group is included. Many new miracles are still in the laboratory stage.

(4) The electrical equipment industry, including electronics and plastics, offers attractive fields—especially for returning servicemen.

(5) Aviation should be included with the "Big Five," although its future is somewhat uncertain. I like best the transport companies; but their stocks now seem high compared with those of the airplane manufacturers.

An Investment Group

(6) The paper and container industry should have better days ahead. This especially applies to the companies which have diversified in cans, plastics, glass and fibers, as well as paper.

(7) The rubber companies should make more money after the war. Current quotations, however, suggest that this group is only fairly priced, rather than attractively priced at the moment.

(8) The textile industry should remain a sound investment for some years after the war. It also has a good ratio as to book values. No spectacular rise, however, can be expected in textile securities.

(9) I am not an authority on the tobacco industry. My tobacco friends, however, insist that the tobacco stocks—other than cigar stocks—are reasonably priced and should be included in a diversified portfolio.

(10) Certainly the building and furniture industry should be mentioned at this point as having a good postwar future. This includes the cement, paint and certain steel companies.

Uncertain Industries

(11) This group includes the heavy steels which are in the "feast or famine" category; I am not now forecasting their postwar outlook.

(12) As a rule I like the food stocks, — baking, canning, dairy products, meat packing, quick freezing, beverages, shortening, etc. They, however, are now too mixed up with government regulations. However, I rate the dairy products first, and the canned fruits last.

(13) The postwar outlook for the automobile and truck industry looks good to me now. I class it in this uncertain group because my associates believe prices of some automobile stocks are too high.

(14) Banking and insurance stocks should be held to a limited amount by all investors who want gradual growth rather than yield.

(15) Equipment, for other than war purposes, should be in demand after the war. This applies to agricultural machinery and perhaps to railroad equipment. The immediate postwar future of office equipment depends upon what the Allied governments do with their surpluses.

Industries To Avoid

(16) The machine tool industry has had and passed its honeymoon.

(17) Certain public utility stocks, being, or to be, liquidated, have profit possibilities; but the bloom is off of the rest of the group.

(18) Profits of the coal industry should severely decline after the war. This especially applies to the anthracite companies.

(19) It seems as if the receipts of the motion picture industry would fall off after the war if television becomes universal.

(20) The worst of all industries is likely to be the railroad industry, including perhaps hotels, etc. Be aware of the rails!

Allied Meeting, Events in Europe Are Intertwined

By DAVID LAWRENCE

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26—However clear-cut the effort may be to separate the events in Europe from the United Nations conference, the fact remains that the two are almost inseparably intertwined.

Allied intercourse in a military sense reflects itself here in a political way. Though this conference isn't supposed to deal, for instance, with the Polish boundary question, it finds itself dealing with the matter of recognition of a new Polish government of unity and the subject of admission of Polish representatives.

What happened in Washington in the conferences between President Truman, Secretary Stettinius, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Foreign Commissar Molotov was kept secret, but enough has been known here to indicate that no settlement was reached. Also it is plain that the American attitude is stiffening and that there is to be insistence on the fulfillment of the Yalta agreement, which it now appears Moscow is interpreting to suit itself.

This kind of thing can be profoundly disturbing but the Russian authorities are unfortunately unfamiliar with American public opinion and do not know that the execution of agreements can be a cardinal point in international relations.

Absurd Red Suspicion

There are indications that the late President Roosevelt spent anxious hours on the Polish problem in the last few days of his life and had to deal also with absurd Russian suspicions that the breakthrough on the Rhine and our sensational advance subsequently almost to the gates of Berlin were due to some previous arrangement with the Germans of which the Russians seemed to think they were not told.

Actually our government knew nothing of the reasons why the Nazis decided to curtail resistance so that the Americans could go through, if indeed they did execute any such maneuver deliberately. So far as the American forces were concerned, they pressed on to Berlin.

CANNING SUGAR
RATIONS WILL BE CUT, PORCH SAYS

Stating that applications for canning sugar will be accepted at the local War Price and Rationing Board on and after May 1, Harry A. Porch, board chairman, said yesterday that allocations will be a third less than the amount issued last year.

He pointed out that there is a critical shortage of sugar for the remainder of the year because of the increasing needs of the armed forces, the industrial alcohol program and the manufacture of nitroglycerin.

The applications may be obtained from the local board either in person or by mail, Porch said, adding that applications should be made as soon as possible to allow the board sufficient time to process them before the various fruit crops arrive on the market.

Only members of family units may apply this year (those related by blood, marriage or adoption). Spare Stamp 13 from War Book Four will be attached for each member of the family unit. No more than eight in one family may apply for and receive sugar. The regulations provide this year for sugar to be used at the ration of one pound of sugar for each four quarts of finished fruit or fruit juice and not more than five pounds may be used per individual for jams, jellies, preserves, fruits butters, catsups, relishes, etc., and curing meats.

According to tradition, Queen Elizabeth owned the first mahogany known in England. Sir Walter Raleigh, the sea-faring courtier, presented her with a table made of it.

Many Long Term Veterans To Be Released Soon

WASHINGTON, April 25 (AP) — Some army veterans are due to be discharged soon, it was learned today, and a cur on the use of 18-year-olds in combat appears headed for the statute books.

Military officials said plans are being laid to release, beginning about mid-year, a number of soldiers who are rounding out four to five years of service.

Many Will Be Held

They cautioned, however, that it will not be possible to release all of these long-term veterans.

Even a unit as small as a battery may have men who would be entitled to release but who could not be spared," an official said.

The new policy will bring the discharge of some of those men who enlisted in the army as the military defense program gained momentum, beginning in May, 1940. It also will apply to veterans who were among the first to be drafted in November of that year.

The discharge program will go into effect even if German resistance should continue beyond mid-year.

House for 6 Months Training

Considerable House sentiment sprang up for the legislation the Senate passed yesterday to prohibit the use of 18-year-olds in combat without six months training. Legislators on the "inside" predicted that, barring some unforeseen development, it probably will be accepted by the House tomorrow and sent to President Truman.

Although the military high command is vigorously opposed to it, the president cannot veto without imperiling the legal status of the whole draft machinery. The legislation is in the form of an amendment to be extending the draft law one year beyond the present expiration date, May 15.

The planned release of veterans of four to five years' service could rule out any substantial reduction of draft calls after June 30.

Army calls are planned to total about 100,000 a month through June. The navy is taking about 32,000 men this month, about half that number in May, and possibly still fewer in June.

The expected calls after June have not been announced. Selective Service said that any reduction will be reflected first in an easing of pressure on men 30 and over. But the extent of this will be governed by the number of long-term veterans released.

Pre-School Clinic Will Be Conducted

By MRS. BOYD WISE

KEMPTON, W. Va., April 26 — Lena W. Walker has announced that a pre-school clinic and registration of all children planning to enter school for the first time next fall will be held May 1 at 1:30 p.m.

Children who have reached the age of six on or before January 1, 1946, will be registered, vaccinated and examined.

tal, Ashville, N. C., Carlisle, and Fort Eustis, Va., before being transferred here July 26, 1944.

Lt. Pippin, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Pippin, of Boscobel, Wis., is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree in June, 1941 and his M. D. from the University of Louisville, Ky., in January 1943. He interned at Louisville General Hospital.

We are seeing men rising above their personal wrath and grief and fear, above their private desires, and hurling themselves into the very jaws of death in a fight for principle.

We are seeing a nation give itself, not for profit or private gain but for Right, for that dream of freedom and truth which has lingered in our hearts through all our years of folly and waste.

It is given us to suffer. We will never see our old way of life again. We will never know the comfort and security we once enjoyed. But we will see renewed the vision that made America, and that carried us through our first tumultuous years.

Then toward a certain morning, a woman felt a great song stirring within her. And groping out of her sleep, Julia Ward Howe wrote these immortal words:

"Mine eyes have seen the glory of the coming of the Lord;

"He is trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored;

"He hath loosed the fatal lightning of His terrible swift sword;

"His truth is marching on."

"MINE EYES HAVE SEEN THE GLORY OF THE COMING OF THE LORD."

We modern Americans have seen much of the coming of the Lord. We have seen the coming of sewing machines and telephones, electric irons and radios, automobiles and radios.

And that has been just about all we could take, and we have taken it, plenty. We have wrapt ourselves in luxuries; we have wallowed in comfort. But of that stern and shining vision which led our fathers on, we have seen little.

We have forgotten that no nation can survive unless it sees "the coming of the Lord" at intervals and knows its sacrifice and agony, its beauty and inspiration.

But now, once again, even the most stupid, even the most complacent, are seeing "the coming of the Lord." We are seeing Him "trampling out the vintage where the grapes of wrath are stored."

Let 'Em Eat Cake from Home

CAKE AND COOKIES from home cheer any serviceman.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor
Of course we all send foodstuffs to our boys who are fighting abroad. But let's not forget our service boys and girls in this country. The youngsters of 18 who have just gone in particularly will appreciate some cakes and cookies baked by Mom. We can send some foods, too, which wouldn't travel well.

You can, for instance, frost a cake for delivery in the United States. It should, however, be a frosting which doesn't crack or rub off easily. It's a good idea always to use cake flour to make sure of a fine, even grain.

Even for mailing in this country, food must be packed and wrapped with care. A cake should go into a box which fits as snugly as possible. If it doesn't fit exactly, fill the chinks with crushed tissue or waxed paper. For cookies, make waxed paper packages of two or three cookies each, and prop them up on edge in a strong box lined with waxed paper. Use little pads of paper between the packages, or else fill in all the crevices with popcorn—which makes good eating when the box is unpacked.

'Mix-Easy' Indian Summer Cake

2½ cups sifted cake flour ¼ cup vegetable shortening
1 teaspoon soda ½ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 teaspoon salt 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
½ teaspoon cinnamon 3 eggs, unbeaten
½ teaspoon nutmeg 1 cup chopped nuts
½ teaspoon allspice 1 cup raisins

Cover raisins with water, simmer 15 minutes, drain and cool. Add to other ingredients after adding soda, salt, and spices. Have shortening at room temperature; mix or stir just to soften. Sift dry ingredients. Add brown sugar. (If lumpy, force through a sieve.) Add flour.

the milk and the eggs. Mix until all flour is dampened, then beat one minute. Add remaining milk, nuts, and raisins; blend, then beat two minutes longer. (Count only actual beating time. Or count beating strokes. Allow at least 100 full strokes per minute.) Scrape bowl often. Turn into a 9 by 2 inch pan, which has been greased, lined on bottom with waxed paper and greased again. Bake at 350 degrees 50 to 55 minutes, or until done. Weighs about 2 lbs. 13 oz.

This cake ships well in the pan, if you think you can persuade your service man or woman to send it back, in the hope of getting it refilled!

Stone Jar Molasses Cookies

3 cups sifted cake flour	1 teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons baking powder	1 cup molasses
double-acting	1/2 cup shortening
baking-powder	1/2 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt

Sift flour once, measure, add double-acting baking powder, salt and ginger; sift again. Heat molasses, remove from fire; add shortening and soda. Add flour gradually, mixing well. Chill until firm enough to shape. Roll in ½ inch balls. Place well apart on greased baking sheet. Press flat with bottom of glass covered with damp cloth. Bake at 350 degrees 15 minutes. Remove from pan; cool. Makes four and one-half dozen.

'Mix-Easy' Nut Cake
2½ cups sifted ¾ cup milk cake flour 3 eggs and 1 egg 2 teaspoons yolk, unbeaten double-acting 1 teaspoon baking powder 1/2 cup flavoring extract
1/2 cups sugar 1/2 cup flour
1/2 cups vegetable almond extract shortening 1 cup finely chopped nuts

Sift flour once; measure into sifter with baking powder, salt and sugar. Have shortening at room temperature; sift just to soften. Sift in sugar. Add half of the milk, the eggs, and flavorings. Mix until all flour is dampened; then beat one minute. Add remaining milk, shortening, and beat two minutes longer. Add nuts and mix well. (Count only actual beating time. Or count beating strokes. Allow at least 100 full strokes a minute. Shape balls and space them out.)

Turn into nine-inch cake pan or two 8 by 8 by 3 inch loaf pans which have been greased and lightly floured. Bake at 375 degrees one hour, or until done. Weighs about 2 lbs. 11 oz.

C. D. Turner Freed From German Prison

T-5 Clyde D. Turner, first reported missing and then said by the War department to be a prisoner of the Germans since December 16, was liberated from the Kassel, Germany, prison and is now in France, according to a letter in which there were no details of his liberation, received by his wife, Mrs. Vrella Twigg Turner, 707 Oldtown road.

The father of a son, six months old, he was first imprisoned at Bad Orola. His wife received two cards and a letter written in January from Bad Orola and a letter last week, dated February, from Kassel. Cpl. Turner wrote that he expected to be home soon.

A former employee of the L and A Bus Company, he entered the service in March, 1943 and was sent overseas last October.

Aircraft Carrier Named after FDR

WASHINGTON, April 26 (AP)—A giant aircraft carrier to be launched at the New York navy yard Sunday has been re-named the "Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Congressional sources said Mrs. Roosevelt would sponsor the 45,000-ton vessel, which is a sistership of the Midway launched last month at Newport News, Va. The navy, however, disclaimed any knowledge of this arrangement.

Passing of Franklin D. Roosevelt Dims Powerful Intimates' Stars

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — By the thread of one man's life hung personal relationships which affected nations. Prime ministers and potentates, once close to Franklin Roosevelt, now must learn how to get along with an unknown gentleman in the White House. Certain army-navy officials, who always knew how Roosevelt would react on this and that, now must do business with a man they once criticized.

To illustrate how the pendulum of fate has swung, here are some of those who will miss Franklin Roosevelt Close

WINSTON CHURCHILL — Was able to call the late president on the telephone any time, night or day. Their relationship was more intimate than with most members of their own cabinets. When Churchill couldn't get Roosevelt, he talked to Harry Hopkins. Their friendship was equally close. Hopkins and Churchill used to stay up late at night sipping brandy long after F. D. R. had gone to bed, and it was those late-hour talks that sometimes worried United States Army-Navy men. For vital policy sometimes was moulded after midnight.

Churchill had planned to hold national elections, probably in June, and Roosevelt's friendship would have been one of his great campaign assets. That asset is now out the window. Instead he must do business with a man he doesn't know and who charmed him a committee whose members were quite critical of certain British lend-lease and international policies abroad.

Some political observers believe that makes Churchill's political future very uncertain.

MAYOR FIGGELLO LAGUARDIA — Now will not run for a fourth term. He can't. The fiery Mayor of New York could have been elected again only with Roosevelt's support and now he will have Dem-Boss Bob Hannegan's vigorous opposition. Hannegan plans to run Brig. Gen. Bill O'Dwyer, famous Brooklyn prosecutor, on the Democratic ticket for mayor. O'Dwyer will win

Truman Criticizes Admirals

ADMIRAL ERNEST KING — The commander of the fleet and chief of naval operations really ran the navy under Roosevelt, and he ran it with a high hand. He ignored the late Secretary Frank Knox whenever he thought like it, knowing he would get a sympathetic ear at the White House. He even overruled Knox on such a trivial matter as a gray-blue uniform for the navy, though Knox had decided it would cut too heavily into the consumption of textiles.

Knox's successor, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal has played in with King. He had to. If King didn't agree with him, the admiral came out bluntly in press conference and said so.

But now there is a new man in the White House who wrote a causic report bitterly critical of the way the admirals slowed up the war by failure to build adequate landing boats. The new president also did not hesitate to throw his hooks into the navy whenever the brass hats get inefficient especially on their inexorable procrastination in building destroyer-escort vessels. So fellow-admirals are watching to see just where King now sits.

Somervell, Truman Clash

GENERAL B. B. SOMERVELL — No army officer clashed with the Truman committee more frequently and more head-on than the tough-talking chief supply officer of the Army. Somervell differed with Truman on all sorts of things, and the Truman committee reports are studded with criticism of the army's supply job.

BERNARD BARUCH — The man who talks with presidents, no longer has the key to the White House. During the bitter battles between the War Production Board civilian group and General Somervell's military clique, Baruch always backed up Somervell. In fact, he was one of Somervell's most vigorous supporters.

Truman, on the other hand, fought in the WPB civilian corner. Also Baruch was for Byrnes not Truman at the Chicago convention. So he may not be such a close friend to president's any more.

GENERAL "WILD BILL" DONOVAN — Of the Office of Strategic Services, sometimes called the "CIA" or "Dagger club" or "Oh So Social," will miss Roosevelt terribly. Donovan ran the giant espionage outfit which tried to find out what was going on behind enemy lines, and he had accumulated the most bizarre assortment of female spies, social regular bluebloods and anti-Roosevelt haters ever seen in Washington. As an old personal friend, Roosevelt gave him free rein, including grandiose plans for a post-war espionage service. Truman does not like peacetime espionage and will not be so lenient.

HOPKINS To Miss Him Most

HARRY HOPKINS — Of all those around Roosevelt, Harry Hopkins will miss him most. There's a very close personal relationship. Although Harry has been criticized vitriically, sometimes even by other presidential intimates, FDR never wavered in his devotion. In a way, Harry took the place of Roosevelt's elder son, Jimmie, whom he once hoped would be his secretary.

NOTE — Several years ago, Roosevelt gave Hopkins permission to take notes on their discussions and write his memoirs. "You have no money, Harry," he said, "and you're foolish if you don't take notes on our conversations. You have my full permission to use them later."

So Harry will miss his old friend terribly.

The critics will say that Hopkins will miss him because of the glamour, the power and the prestige. But actually there was a love and devotion between the two men which few realized and even fewer understood.

NOTE — Several years ago, Roosevelt gave Hopkins permission to take notes on their discussions and write his memoirs. "You have no money, Harry," he said, "and you're foolish if you don't take notes on our conversations. You have my full permission to use them later."

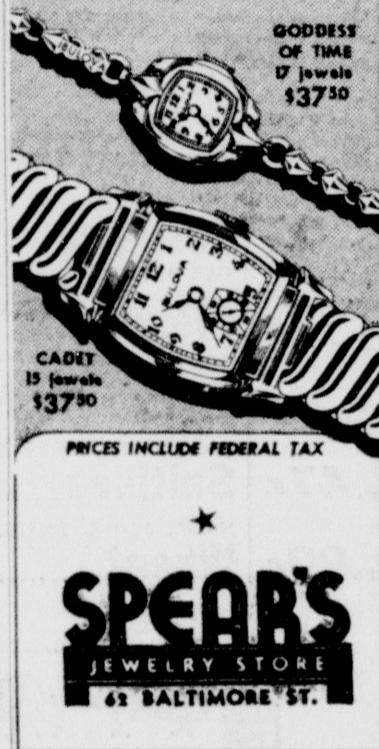

Hopkins, always too busy, always engrossed with winning the chief's next objective, never had time to take notes. He knows more about man, but most of the secrets will go with Hopkins to the grave.

So Harry will miss his old friend terribly.

The critics will say that Hopkins will miss him because of the glamour, the power and the prestige. But actually there was a love and devotion between the two men which few realized and even fewer understood.

Memorial Service R. G. White, 91,
Planned To Honor Dies at Underwood
Albert L. Murphy

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, April 26—Raleigh G. White, 91, died at the home of his son, Wesley White, south of Oakland, in the Underwood section, Tuesday, April 24, at 10:30 p.m.

He was born January 11, 1854, a son of the late William and Rachel Smith White. He was a retired farmer and a member of the Methodist church, Oakland. He married Miss Annie Lawton February 5, 1878. She died in September, 1918. He is the last of a family of five.

Surviving him are a son, Wesley White, with whom he resided, and a daughter, Mrs. Harry Durst, also of Underwood section; four granddaughters, Mrs. Revy Beckman, Oakland; Mrs. Russell Shaffer, Keyser; Cadet Nurse Annie Durst, Church Home hospital, Baltimore; Miss Wilda Durst, Baltimore, two grandsons, T-Sgt. Roy O. Durst, army air corps, Great Bend, Kan., and Floyd Durst, Oakland, and eight great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted Thursday at 2:30 p.m. from the home with the Rev. Minor Sprague, Methodist pastor, officiating. Interment was in the Oakland cemetery. Pallbearers were M. V. Kiloway, Floyd Wensel, George Fulk, Eddie Swauger, Carlton Bowler and Dwight Mills.

Frostburg Briefs

It has been announced that new front doors will be placed and more added to St. Michael's Catholic church, this city. A campaign among members to raise funds will be started shortly. Five thousand dollars is the estimated cost of the improvements, which are to be made as soon as materials are available.

The clothing drive being conducted here for the war-torn areas of Europe and other Allied countries will close Saturday. The Frostburg committee is being assisted in sorting the clothing by a group from the Navy Mothers' club under the direction of Mrs. Ruth Everline, an officer of the club. The work is being done in the central collection depot, Stern building, East Main street. Persons having small cars are asked to take them to the Stern building or call Frostburg 205 or 695.

Pastor To Deliver Farewell Sermon; Will Go to India

Dr. R. M. Dunkelberger Served at Meyersdale Church Three Years

By W. A. SHOEMAKER

MEYERSDALE, Pa., April 26 — The Rev. R. M. Dunkelberger, D.D., pastor of Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, Meyersdale, will deliver his farewell sermon to the congregation on Sunday morning, after having served in the pastorate during the past three years. He will return to the mission field in India next month after having spent a five-year furlough in the United States. Dr. Dunkelberger has served as pastor of the Meyersdale church since the Rev. H. K. Hiltner was granted leave three years ago to enter the army chaplain corps.

Dr. Dunkelberger has spent more than thirty years as a Lutheran missionary in India. He and his wife returned to this country in 1940. They made several previous attempts to return to the mission field but were unable to do so because of wartime travel restrictions.

The missionary is a son of the late Josiah W. and Jennie Dunn Center room on Main street, Lonaconing. It is sponsored by local organizations.

Brief Items

A silver tea will be held at the Presbytery church by the Ladies Bible class on May 10. A program is being arranged. The committee in charge includes Miss Marie Ferguson, chairman; Miss Marion Darnay, and Mrs. Bella Moses.

Wastepaper will be collected by Lonaconing Boy Scout Troop No. 42 on Saturday. J. Bradley Marshall, who is in charge of this area, has asked for the use of trucks for collecting and hauling to the pulp and paper mill. Contributors are asked to have their bundles ready on curbs for easy collection.

The Rev. and Mrs. Dunkelberger are the parents of two children, both born in India. They are Capt. Harold A. Dunkelberger, an army chaplain at Hospital in St. Petersburg, Fla., and Dorothy Whitson, Selma field, Monroe, Ia.

Survives Sinking

LT. James J. Hoblitzell, III, chief engineering officer aboard the destroyer M. L. Abele, has survived the sinking of that vessel. It was announced on Tuesday. The vessel, a new type craft which was recently commissioned, was reported lost in action off Okinawa early in April in a Navy department dispatch released last Friday.

The officer is a son of Mrs. Pearl Hartley Hoblitzell, Meyersdale, and is the husband of Mrs. Jane Black Hoblitzell, daughter of the late Rev. B. A. Black, and Mrs. Black, now a resident of Greensburg. The Rev. Mr. Black was pastor of the Amity Reformed church here. Mrs. Hoblitzell is at present a resident of Somerton.

Liberated Soldier Is Home

Tech. Sgt. Bernard Brown, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaiah Brown, well-known residents of Meyersdale, arrived here Wednesday morning after having been released from a German prison by the Russians.

Tech. Sgt. Brown was captured by the Germans during fighting on the western front last fall. He was held for three weeks near Lemburg, about fifty miles east of the Rhine, before being taken to a prison camp at Furstenburg, on the Elbe, where his liberation took place.

The soldier reports that the 30,000 prisoners of war held at the latter camp suffered severely from the cold during the winter, as well as from lack of food. Tech. Sgt. Brown has been in the army since February, 1941, when the Pennsylvania National Guard was taken over by the federal government and incorporated into the army.

When his furlough ends he will report to Asheville, N. C., for a two weeks' rest period before reassigned to Fort Jackson, S. C.

Pfc. Floyd Cosner Missing in Action

By MRS. MYRTLE PARK

PETERSBURG, W. Va., April 26—Pfc. Floyd Cosner, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cosner, Bismarck, is missing in action in Germany, according to recent War department message to his parents.

Pfc. Cosner was wounded last January but returned to his outfit after being hospitalized.

Is Serving in Burma

Sgt. Earl Van Meter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Van Meter, is a member of the "Mars" task force in Burma, the only American ground combat unit in action in Southeast Asia, according to a recent field dispatch.

The members of the outfit originally served as volunteers with Maj. Gen. Frank D. Merrill's Marauders and are now attached to the Four Hundred Seventy-fifth Infantry regiment, a unit of the task force, which is commanded by Brig. Gen. John P. Willey, Hampton, Va.

Since February, 1944, the infantrymen have marched more than 1,000 miles over the "worst terrain in the world" to drive the Japs out of North Burma and down toward Lashio, the starting point of the

Six Eligible for Civil Service Tests; Police Applicant Turned Down

The number of eligibles for the city civil service examination to be conducted today at 7 p.m. in Fort Hill high school was reduced from seven to six last evening by the civil service board.

Announcement was made by the board that an aspirant for a position in the police department was declared ineligible because he was over the age limit by four months, ten pounds under the weight specified and one inch below the required height.

Applicants for positions in the police department must be between the ages of 21 and 36 years, five feet, nine inches in height and must tip the beam at 145 pounds.

Three of the persons eligible to take the tests are seeking the job of assistant city sanitary inspector while three have their eyes on the position of airport attendant.

Five points are allowed all war veterans taking the examination. They must, however, present their discharge papers on the night the examination is conducted.

LOCAL WOMEN GET THOUSANDS OF EXTRA RED POINTS

Every day, precious red points are being paid to housewives who turn in used fats to their butchers. Because this country is faced with a possible fat shortage, these used kitchen fats are even more urgently needed to make medicines, synthetic rubber, gunpowder, soaps, paints and a hundred other essentials on the battlefield and home front.

Every woman can help towards final Victory by saving every drop of used fat each time she cooks. Even a spoonful is worth salvaging. Won't you keep saving until final Victory over both Germany and Japan?

Many Clothing Retailers Fail To File OPA Charts

Less than half of the 180 retail clothing, furniture and shoe dealers in Allegany county have filed pricing charts with the Baltimore OPA office, although the filing deadline was April 20, officials of the local War Price and Rationing Board said yesterday.

It was pointed out that failure to file the charts, upon which dealers must base prices for incoming merchandise, is considered a violation of OPA regulations, and such cases will be turned over to the enforcement division.

Under a new regulation which became effective March 19, markup control for furniture, clothing and shoes sold at retail was substituted for a previous regulation, which froze prices on thousands of commodities at the March, 1942 level.

OPA officials warned that retailers of the specified items may not sell such merchandise after May 4 unless they have filed their charts with the Baltimore office and have received an acknowledgment of such filing.

Arbitration Hearings
On Celanese Disputes
Held at Court House

Arbitration hearings on five disputes at the Celanese plant were held Wednesday at the court house with Charles D. Morgan, New York, as the arbitrator. As a result of an agreement reached at the beginning of the session yesterday no information was released pertaining to the meeting. It was indicated, however, that the findings will be made public at a later date.

Cases scheduled to be heard yesterday included Mari Hyde and Hugh Fazenbaker, engineering, discharged; Charles Jolley and James Stewart, filtration, suspended; to determine seniority provisions for recalling workers after the 1943 explosion; upgrading of machine fixtures in textile engineering, and fixing of vacation period for refrigeration workers.

Earlier this week John G. Thomas, business manager of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, said that in the latter case the company want to exclude workers from taking vacations between June and September, inclusive, while the union contends the employees should be eligible to take vacations the same as others at the plant.

Cases scheduled to be heard yesterday included Mari Hyde and Hugh Fazenbaker, engineering, discharged; Charles Jolley and James Stewart, filtration, suspended; to determine seniority provisions for recalling workers after the 1943 explosion; upgrading of machine fixtures in textile engineering, and fixing of vacation period for refrigeration workers.

Earlier this week John G. Thomas, business manager of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, said that in the latter case the company want to exclude workers from taking vacations between June and September, inclusive, while the union contends the employees should be eligible to take vacations the same as others at the plant.

Dad-To-Be Makes Life Miserable For Young Wife

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:
We've been married a year now and have been extremely happy. We like practically the same things and are devoted to one another. My husband is 25 years of age and I am 21.

When we were first married we made an agreement that we wouldn't have children until he was better situated financially. But now that I've told him I'm to become a mother, he is making it very miserable for me. He doesn't want me to suffer from childbearing

TWENTY-ONE

If your husband is a normal man, the first sight of that baby will make him feel he's the happiest man in the world. And I hope he'll be a good sport and drop his present attitude in regard to the coming of his child. The baby will be as much his as yours, and he doesn't have to go through the ordeal that awaits you. It's a poor specimen of a man who is nasty to his wife when she is expecting a baby.

Your mother's suggestion that you pay her a visit, to escape the tantrums of the boy-husband, is sensible. Try to be more cheerful. If you're discontented and give way to your feelings, you're apt to have an unhappy, fretful child on your hands. For the baby's sake be cheerful.

Grandparents Disapprove
Dear Miss Fairfax:
Some worthy has said consistency is a jewel, but what would the old and said he'd rather we would adopt one. And he's afraid too the baby will put us too much in debt.

I've told mother about it and she suggests I come home for a visit, and that I shouldn't worry about it because it would affect my baby's health. My husband has been deferred up to now, but probably will have to go into the service before long.

Love versus Religion

Dear Miss Fairfax:
I'm a girl of 20 and have been going with a boy for five years now. He has just come back from overseas after two years absence. We are engaged and want to be married.

His parents object because we are of different religions and are trying to break us up. We are both very unhappy.

He is willing to join my church and be married but he's afraid if he does this, his parents will have nothing more to do with him. And now that he is wounded he is discharged from the service.

J.A.H.

It seems strange that religion, which tries to teach its adherents brotherly love, should break up so many families and be responsible for so much bitterness and hatred. If your fiance's parents will look around them they will see that different religions are not always a source of unhappiness in married life.

In marriage, tolerance rather than bigotry makes the road easier. (Copyright 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Medical Corpsman Home From Service in Alaska And in British Columbia

Robert R. Willison, 38, recently promoted to technician fifth grade as a surgical technician with the medical corps stationed at Prince Rupert, British Columbia, is on a forty-five day furlough at home with his wife, Mrs. Hazel L. Willison, his daughter, Roberta J., 2, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Willison, 509 Avirett Avenue. Cpl. Willison, who entered the service in July, 1943, has been overseas fifteen months, half of which time he served in Alaska and the other half in British Columbia. At the end of his furlough he will report to Fort Meade, enroute to an assignment in Alaska.

Cpl. Willison attended school at Charlotte Hall military academy, Charlotte Hall. He was employed at the Kelly-Springfield plant at the time he entered the service. He holds the Asiatic-Pacific and American theater ribbons and the Good Conduct Medal.

Local Brothers Serve In Same Office in Italy

Pvt. Luther C. Cox, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Russell Cox, 518 Maryland avenue, was recently assigned to an adjutants office of a Twelfth AAF troop carrier group in Italy where he works for his brother, Cpl. Edward C. Cox, husband of Mrs. Marcella Jane Cox, 607 Oldtown road.

Cpl. Cox, who has been overseas with the group since April, 1944, was formerly employed by the Potomac Edison Company. He entered the service in August, 1942.

Pvt. Cox graduated from Fort Hill high school in 1944. He joined the army after graduation and attended AAF radio mechanics school, Madison, Wis., before he was sent overseas.

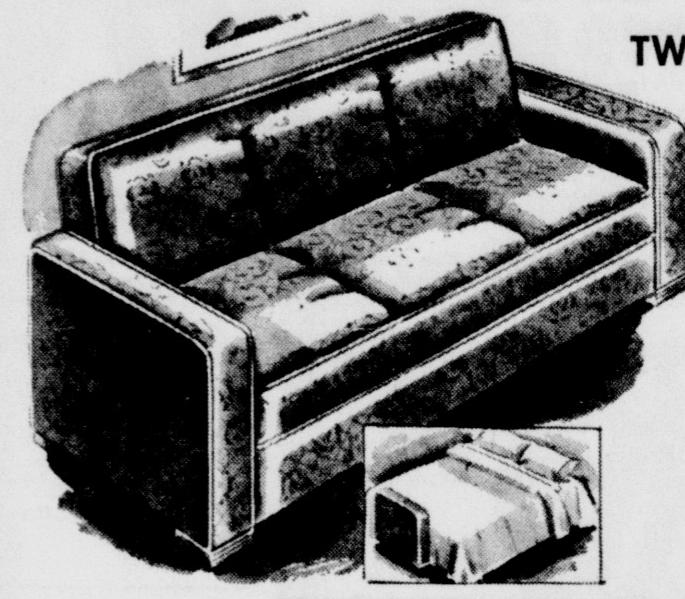

A third brother, Daniel R. Cox, is with the navy and a brother-in-law, Master Sgt. Guy G. Shaffer, is with the AAF in the South Pacific.

Two Clashes Here Today Launch 1945 Bi-State Conference Race

LaSalle's Defending Champs Oppose Beall, Allegany Tangles with Hyndman

The 1945 Bi-State Interscholastic

Baseball Conference race will get under way this afternoon with La-

Salle's defending champions versus the Beall High Mountaineers

of Frostburg, at Community park and the Allegany High

Campers, entertaining Hyndman

(Pa.) at Campobello. Both games will start at 4 o'clock.

Fort Hill, the other member of the conference, won't play its first game in the wheel until next Tuesday when it opposes Beall at Frostburg.

Two of the four teams appearing in today's lid-lifters will be opening

1945 campaigns. Allegany and Hyndman will be playing their first games. LaSalle has won two straight and Beall turned back Frostburg

American Legion earlier this week in its baptism of fire.

Explorers Face Workman

The Explorers are scheduled to bat against last year's No. 1 conference pitcher—Beall's John Workman. Workman won five games and lost one with one of his triumphs a

1-1, eight-inning victory over La-

Salle. The Beall twirler trimmed

Fort Hill 9-6 and 5-4, Allegany 6-3 in nine innings and 10-2 and lost to Hyndman 1-0. The Mountaineers defeat by Hyndman, incidentally, gave LaSalle the championship with six wins and two losses. Hyndman and Beall tied for second with five victories and three reverses.

Tommy Geatz is slated to work on the slab for the Explorers. In pitching LaSalle to a 15-0 decision over a LaSalle student club this week, Geatz allowed no hits and no runs and faced the minimum of twenty-one batters.

Tom Burns, Allegany's starter, starred for Hyndman last spring

when he won two games and lost two for Lloyd Keller's Pennsyl-vanians. A righthander, Burns lost

9-3 to LaSalle and 14-7 to Allegany and turned back Beall 4-1 and 1-0 in 1944.

Rubber Workers To Take Definite Action on Strike

Special Meeting Scheduled This Morning; Production Still Suspended

The eight-inch shell line at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant was shut down last night after 3 to 11 p. m. and 11 p. m. to 7 a. m. shift workers failed to report to their jobs yesterday.

Shell line workers quit in sympathy with rubber workers at 9 p. m. Tuesday but resumed production several hours later. Partial production was maintained on the shell line Wednesday.

Tire production remained at a standstill at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant last night as Ralph C. Beard, president of Local 26, United Rubber Workers of America, declared that the question of whether or not the work stoppage continues will be "definitely" decided at a special membership meeting to be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the state army.

Beard called this morning's meeting, the third to be held for the membership since the strike started Tuesday evening, following receipt of a telegraphed message from S. H. Dalrymple, international president of the URWA.

The message, Beard said, "makes it imperative" to hold the session this morning.

Quality Decision

Yesterday morning the second membership meeting was held and at that session members of the union voted to return to work providing the company agrees to reinstate the two employees whose discharge Monday precipitated the stoppage that is now in its third day.

Company officials had no comment on that decision, however, but repeated again that the company has a contract with the union providing "adequate procedure" for handling all grievances, and said that in cases where any employee has been unjustly dealt with ample protection is provided against any loss of wages.

In view of this contract protection, one company spokesman said, the company "does not feel there is any justification for repeated work stoppages."

Unable to Fill Orders

This same spokesman stated that the company would be "unable to fill military orders" for urgently needed truck tires and heavy artillery shells due to "work stoppages that have occurred during April," and pointed out that in addition to the loss of material workers have suffered a loss in wages of more than $30,000.

Kelly management, the official said, is "hopeful that full production may be quickly resumed" in order to meet contracts calling for immediate delivery of truck tires and heavy shells urgently needed by the fighting forces.

In announcing that the special membership meeting has been called for this morning, Beard disclosed that Regis New, Pittsburgh, international representative of URWA, would be present at the session.

Officials To Attend

Major David T. Raisen, labor officer of the Third Service Command, and Frank R. McLaughlin, United States Commissioner of Conciliation of the Department of Labor, also indicated last night that they will attend the meeting this morning.

In summing up the situation to date, Raisen and McLaughlin pointed out that at the first membership meeting, employees at the plant "refused definitely" to return to their jobs. At the second meeting, they added, the members were "attentive and in a conciliatory mood."

"We felt encouraged to a certain extent," Raisen and McLaughlin related, "because their attitude changed" and on a vote the employees were determined to continue the work stoppage.

In explaining the viewpoint of the company, an official of the firm pointed out that the company pays all employees for a full eight hours, including one-half hour granted for lunch period where operations are scheduled for a twenty-four-hour basis.

Tendency Growing

However, this spokesman stated, there is a "growing tendency" on the part of a few workers to persist in stopping their machines for work in advance of quitting time. This obviously retards production, he said, and is not fair to the majority of workers "who give their productive effort for the scheduled working period."

The present work stoppage, the official recalled, is due to the discharge of two men in the machine shop on the second shift on Monday for quitting work before the scheduled stopping time. These employees, he added, "have been repeatedly warned" but in spite of this persisted in regulating their own productive time."

Inmate of Penal Farm Asks Court For His Freedom

Prisoner Claims He Is Held Illegally; Hearing Set for May 3

Seeking his release from the Maryland State Penal Farm, near Hagerstown, Jack Kincaid filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus against Elmer St. C. Maxwell, superintendent, yesterday in circuit court.

Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge Walter C. Capper ordered that the writ be issued, and set 10:30 a. m. on May 3 as the date for a hearing on the petition.

Kincaid was convicted of burglary in Baltimore City Criminal Court on January 10, 1944, and was sentenced to five years in the state penitentiary. He was transferred to the penal farm on April 14, 1944, and in a letter accompanying the petition, Maxwell informed Judges Huster and Capper that Kincaid, if he remains at the farm, and "earns all possible good time," he said.

Two Men Indicted

In asking for the writ of habeas corpus, Kincaid charged that he is illegally restrained of his liberty and is "held a prisoner" at the penal farm by Maxwell.

Outlining the circumstances preceding his conviction, Kincaid said he was tried on January 10, 1944, on an indictment returned against himself and Roland Mulcahy, charging them with breaking and entering a Baltimore building on December 30, 1943.

A copy of the court record enclosed indicated that he and Mulcahy were accused of stealing whiskey valued at $5.30 from the building. Kincaid, the record showed, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge.

No Record of Consent

Upon being arraigned, Kincaid asserted in his petition, he was not asked by the court or by an attorney whether he elected to be tried by a jury or by the presiding judge. He added that there is no record of his consent to be tried by the presiding judge.

Kincaid charged in addition that after the finding of the court and before being sentenced he was not asked by the court if he had anything to say why the judgment of the court should be imposed. He stated there is nothing in the record to show he was granted that privilege and added that he had "good and sufficient" reasons to submit to the court why judgment should not be imposed.

Persons with eviction problems are also asked to consult the local office for information.

Active in Labor Circles

Neal has also been active in the work of the Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference and was the first recording secretary of the local organization. He now serves as vice president of the labor group.

The local man was employed at the Klots Throwing Company mill at Lonaconing before coming to the Celanese plant. He is 33, a native of this city, married and the father of two children, a boy and a girl.

VFW INSTALLATION SCHEDULED TONIGHT IN QUEEN CITY HOTEL

Frank Weipert, senior department commander, and George Titter, past department commander, will install officers of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at exercises to be held today at 7:30 p. m. in the Queen City hotel ballroom.

Officers of the auxiliary unit will be installed by Mrs. Catherine Leary, department president.

Chief Judge William A. Huster will be master of ceremonies and speakers will include Attorney General William C. Walsh, Associate Judge Walter C. Capper, Mayor Thomas S. Post, Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney; First Sgt. H. Frank Hinze, William A. Gunter, Robert C. Bowers and Harry Barley.

The invocation will be given by the Rev. E.G.A. Snider and the benediction by the Rev. Fred Zimmerman.

Following the exercises Lee Winter's Studio will present a floor show and music for dancing will be provided by Gray's Yankees.

31 Tons of Wastepaper Picked Up in Four Days

Eight tons of wastepaper were collected yesterday in the section south of Baltimore street and Baltimore Avenue to the Oldtown road, boosting the total to thirty-one tons for the first four days in the five day drive which will be concluded today.

The day's canvas will include the entire section south of Oldtown road. Householders are asked to place their wastepaper on the curb at 9 a. m.

The temple meeting was clinched by a luncheon at which four local Masonic lodges, Ohr, Potomac, East and West, and Fort Cumberland, were joint hosts. The luncheon was served by McKinley Chapter No. 12, Order of the Eastern Star.

S. Russ Minter, local architect, is preparing preliminary plans for a new elementary-junior senior high school in Mt. Savage, a junior-senior high school in Lonaconing, an elementary school in Ellerslie and additions to buildings at Corynigan and Midland. It was announced yesterday by Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent.

If the federal government participates in sharing the cost, other projects will be added, he stated.

It is estimated that $8,070,000 is needed in the state for new buildings and repairs to present structures.

The postwar building program calls for an expenditure of $350,000. Kopp said. The money for all of the county projects is available.

If the federal government participates in sharing the cost, other projects will be added, he stated.

It is estimated that $8,070,000 is needed in the state for new buildings and repairs to present structures.

The former Cumberland attorney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Geppert, 766 Fayette street, is permanently attached to the staff of Vice Adm. Richmond K. Turner as a navy intelligence officer. Turner heads all amphibious operations in the Pacific.
